CELEBRATING A QUARTER CENTURY OF IMPACT: REFLECTING ON OUR MISSION AND CHARTING INCLUSIVE FUTURE DIRECTIONS

The International Association for Research on Service-Learning and Community Engagement (IARSLCE) is excited to announce the call for proposals for our 25th Anniversary Conference. This milestone event invites participants to reflect on our collective impact over the past quarter century and to chart inclusive future directions for service-learning and community engagement (SLCE). We seek to highlight transformative scholarship, innovative practices, and collaborative partnerships that have advanced equity and community impact.

SESSION DESCRIPTIONS

Lightning Talks are incisive twenty-minute presentations focusing on a key element related to the conference theme. Topics for the talks might include:

- details about an effective, innovative teaching practice;
- application of one theoretical concept or piece of research;
- discussion of a key moment for leadership and advocacy in our field; and/or
- description of a collaboration across disciplines, institutions, and/or groups that resulted in a generative moment.

Poster Presentations provide a forum for scholars to engage in active discussion with other conference participants about either a completed research project or a project in the developing stages. Individuals, institutions, and organizations may present posters that highlight current research or feature programs and community partnerships informed by research and/or yield research opportunities.

Research Paper Presentations involve the formal presentation of a research paper that advances service-learning and/or community engagement research. Research papers present well-developed arguments on philosophical, theoretical, policy, and/or practical issues in the study of service-learning and community engagement and adhere to the tenets of scholarly research. Papers (two per session) will be grouped thematically.

Roundtable Discussions provide an opportunity for conference attendees to discuss research in development with other conference attendees in an informal, conversational setting. A table host will take responsibility for facilitating the discussion, and holding open the space for sharing ideas, pushing boundaries of inquiry and/or practice, and potential for continued collaboration and community beyond the conference based on the interest of roundtable participants.

A MESSAGE FROM THE BOARD CHAIR

In July 2024, Agnieszka Nance (IARSLCE historian and Treasurer) and I joined Darren Lortan (2024 IARSLCE Board Chair) in Durban for a scouting trip for the 2025 conference, hosted by the KwaZulu-Natal Convention Bureau (now known as Tourism and Film KZN ). After nine-days of exploring the city, meeting with government officials, and visiting seven hotels, some with conference venues (and one that was a former ice-skating rink), we unanimously decided that Durban's Coastlands Umhlanga Hotel would be the site for the 25th Anniversary Conference. Just over a year later, we are thrilled to be heading back with all of you!

This year's theme, Celebrating a Quarter Century of Impact: Reflecting on Our Mission and Charting Inclusive Future Directions, invites us to honor our shared history while looking boldly ahead. We've developed a conference program that begins with community tours to ground us in the local context. The conference will formally launch with the Welcome Gathering, where we will set the tone for a forward-looking, action-oriented three-days of scholarship. Throughout the week you can expect engaging concurrent sessions, thought-provoking plenaries, and evening receptions filled with rich opportunities to collaborate, reflect, and renew our commitment to equity and community impact. We'll close the conference together in dialogue at the Membership Town Hall and lift up excellence across our field at the Awards Recognition Ceremony.

I am especially excited for the unveiling of IARSLCE's finalized Global Research Agenda. Be sure to attend all three plenaries to learn about the findings and opportunities for you to immerse yourselves in this vision and contribute to the next steps through sessions, discussions, and collaborative planning.

Whether you're joining us to present your work, build partnerships, or simply recharge your scholarly and civic imagination, we are so glad you'll be joining us in Durban. Let's make this milestone anniversary for IARSLCE, not only a celebration of our past — but a bold step into an inclusive, just, and impactful future for SLCE.

I can't wait to welcome everyone in Durban so you can see the beauty of the Warmest Place to Be, filled with rich culture, heritage, and history that you'll be sure to encounter during your visit!

Rochelle Smarr
2025 IARSLCE Board Chair
